EMILY JANE WARBURTON

CONOMIC CONDITIONS IN England were not good in the mid-19th century, so migration to Australia was the topic of the day. Amongst the ■ English migrants was little Emily Jane Warburton, aged one, in the company of her parents, Robert Warburton and his wife Mary (nee Hulme). A search of the assisted and unassisted shipping records of Public Record Office Victoria found only one record of a Mr and Mrs Warburton with a child sailing to Australia between 1839 and 1923. No record specifically mentions Robert Warburton, and those that mention Mary Warburton do not display the age anywhere near our Mary's birth year or show she arrived either alone or with a Warburton male other than Robert. The manifest of the ship Brevet shows Mr and Mrs Warburton and a female child on that ship. There is a discrepancy in the ages of Mr and Mrs Warburton and that of Robert and Mary. The manifest has Mr Warburton aged 30, making him born ca. 1824, and Mrs Warburton aged 26, born ca. 1828. Robert was born in 1821 and Mary in 1833. The discrepancy cannot be explained; however, it is more than likely that the ship's manifest refers to our ancestors as it is the only record available. A search of NSW's shipping records found no record of Robert and Mary arriving in that colony.

Extract from the passenger list of The Brevet showing the Warburtons arriving in Melbourne on 26 June 1854. Their entry is at the bottom

The Warburton family, as it then was, left its home town of Altrincham and sailed from Liverpool on the ship, Brevet, arriving in Melbourne on 26 June 1854 to start a new life.^{1, 2} At that stage, Emily Jane was the only child. Her sibling, Susannah, was born in October 1854, therefore, Mary was pregnant with her during the passage to Australia, which would have made her voyage more uncomfortable than the 'normal' roughness of a trip to Australia at that time as outlined in the above chapter.

³ The Established Church was a creature of the Schism Act 1714 (13 Ann., c.7). This was an Act of the Parliament of Great Britain that stipulated that anyone who wished to keep a public or private school, or act as tutor, must first be granted a licence from a bishop. Also, he must conform to the liturgy of the Church of England and to have taken in the past year the rites of that Church. Source: www.wikipedia.org

He was 30 years of age at the time of his marriage and was a railway station clerk living in Altrincham.⁵ Emily's mother, Mary Hulme was born on 20 June 1833 in Timperley, Cheshire.⁶ She was residing in Timperley at the time of the marriage, presumably with her parents as her father, John Hulme, was a farmer in that village at that time. He was born in 1811 in Stockport, Cheshire, and his wife, Mary (nee Potts) was born in 1807 at Stockport.⁷

Certified extract of entry of marriage between Emily's parents, Robert Warburton and Mary (nee Hulme) on 10 June 1852

Robert Warburton's parents (Emily Jane's grandparents), John (born 1785) and Susannah (nee Martin) (born ca.1792 at Bolton, Lancashire) were married on 18 October 1817. John died on 12 January 1835, aged 49 years. He appears to have changed occupations during his life: at the time of his marriage he was a gardener, and by the time Robert was born, and on his death, he was an innkeeper (although the affidavit on p.24 suggests he was still a gardener).

Robert had a sister, also named Susannah (born 24 August 1823), brothers, John (born 13 March 1826) and Alfred (born 1 May 1832). The child, John, died on 8 October 1827, and is buried with his parents.

⁶ Timperley is approximately 11 km southwest of Manchester. The name Timperley derives from Timber Leah, the Anglo-Saxon (Old English) for a "clearing in a wood". This can be used to roughly date the settlement of Timperley to between the 7th and 8th centuries. Source: www.wikipedia.org

⁷ The dates of birth of John and Mary Hulme were provided by Shane Kirne, great grandson of Emily Jane Bourke (nee Warburton)

⁸ Her name is recorded on her marriage certificate as Susanna, while her gravestone has it as Susannah, as do the 1841 and 1851 censuses and the 1843 indenture notice (p.29)

John's father, Emily Jane's great-grandfather, also named John, was born in 1763 in Cheshire and died in 1791 in Bowdon. His wife, Mary (nee Brunderett), was also born in Cheshire. No other information is known of them.¹¹ Attempts to find further details of John and Mary, in particular, such as dates of birth, etc., has proved fruitless as the area covered by the Church of England Parish of Bowdon (St Mary's) where it is likely they lived in, was unusually large at one time.^{12, 13}

There is St George's Church in Altrincham built in the 1790s (which still exists) but that was a 'chapel of ease' for the Bowdon parish, which meant the people of Altrincham and further north could travel to church there more easily but they still had to be married and baptised in Bowdon. St George's did not have its own parish until 1860. The Warburtons may have gone to either church to worship but St George's was closer. St George's does have a burial ground but it may have only been used from 1860 onwards.¹⁴

13 Email from Derrick Murdie, 11 October 2019. Derrick is the 'keeper of the church records' at Bowdon: In the 18th century the churches were the main keepers of births, marriages and deaths and a national system was not instituted until 1836 as I understand the situation. The records for Bowdon Parish which in those days covered an area about 12 miles by 6 miles [19.3km by 9.7km] of a largely farming area with a sparse population. Just outside this parish is the village called Warburton, and the surname Warburton is the most common one in our graveyard. John and Susanna are both shown as living in this parish. From his gravestone it seems that John was born about 1785. John and Mary Warburton of Dunham Woodhouses on 31 July 1785 baptised a son with the name John. These were possibly his parents. No trace can be found of the baptism for a Susanna Martin.

Innkeepers

HE WARBURTONS WERE innkeepers at the George & Dragon Inn, 22 Manchester Road, Altrincham. The Warburton name is recorded as the innkeeper from 1821/2 until 1852; James Warburton was the innkeeper from 1821/2 to 1830 when it was taken over by Thomas Warburton. He handed it to Emily Jane's grandfather, John, in 1834 and then Susannah took over in 1836 after John's death the previous year. Susannah held the licence until 1852 when the 40-year Warburton relationship with the inn ended. It is possible, indeed probable, that the first two Warburtons – James and Thomas – are related to John, however, how is not known.

Susannah hosts the anniversary of the Earl of Stamford Lodge of the independent Order of Odd Fellows: Manchester Courier and Lancaster General Advertiser, Saturday, 14 August 1841

ALTRINCHAM. - ANNIVERSARY OF THE EARL OF ALTRINCHAM.—ANNIVERSARY OF THE KARL OF STAMFORD LODGE OF THE INDEPENDENT ORDER OF ODD FELLOWS.—On Monday, August 2nd, the members of the above named lodge assembled at the house of Mrs. Warburton, of the George and Dragon, to commemorate their ninth anniversary. The brothers of this philanthropic society met at 10 o'clock, and after visiting the mansion of E. J. Lloyd, Esq., Oldfield Hall, proceeded to St. George's Church, where an excellent and appropriate discourse was delivered by the Rev. W. C. B. Cave, M. A., from Mark, ix. c., 50 v. On leaving the church the procession perambulated the field Hall, proceeded to St. George's Church, where an excellent and appropriate discourse was delivered by the Rev. W. C. B. Cave, M. A., from Mark, ix. e., 50 v. On leaving the church the procession perambulated the streets of Altrincham, and continued their route to the Loyal Helsby Lodge, Timperley, where they partook of refreshments, provided by the host of that lodge. Thence they proceeded to the George and Dragon, where upwards of 250 members set down to a most sampluous and plentiful dinner, prepared by their worthy hostess, Mrs. Warburton. The cloth being removed, Wm. Wilson, Esq., (surgeon to the lodge,) was unanimously called to the chair, supported on his right by the Rev. W. C. B. Cave and Brother Mort, and on his left by C. S. Bate and P. G. Yearsley; Brother Scott, of Dunham, officiated as vice-chairman, when the following toasts and sentiments were given:—"Our most beloved Severeign the Queen;" three times three. Band—"God save the Queen;" three times three. Band—"Princes Royal;" three times three. Band—"Hail Star of Brunswick."

"Queen Dowager and Royal Family;" three times three. Band—"Hail smilling morn." "The Right Hon the Earl of Stamford and Warrington;" three times three. Band—"We shall never see the like again." Song, Brother Leach—"Old English Gentleman." "Lerd Grey de Groby and Dunham Family." Band—"The Juvenile March." The chairman gave "The health of the Rev. W. C. B. Cave; whighly flattering speech. Band—"Cluuch of England." "Army and Navy." Band—"Rule Britannia." "Success and Presperity to the Independent Order of Odd Pollows;" Mr. Mert responded to the toast. The reverend gentleman then proposed "The health of Mr. W. Wilson, their much respected Chairman," and also made some pleasing comments on his private and professional character, which were received with great applanse. The chairman acknowledged the toast in a very neat speech. "The Vice-chairman." "The Post and Present Officers of the Earl of Stamford Lodge;" P. G. Jackson responded to the toast. "Our much respected Hostess. mitted, and dencing and singing were kept up until a late hour, when the company returned home, highly gratified with the proceedings of the day.

The 1841 census shows that Susannah is an inn-keeper at Sandiway Head, Bowdon, Altrincham. With her on the night of the census is her son Robert (aged 20), her daughter Susannah (14) and Alfred (11). Their other son, John, had died on 8 October 1827, aged just 19 months. A number of guests at her inn were also present on that census evening. This suggests the inn is at Sandiway Head.

Manchester Road, where The George & Dragon is located, is not what the locals would call Bowdon as it is situated in the north of Altrincham. However, looking at Susannah Warburton's entry on the 1841 census, the addresses that are listed close to Susannah's address in the census are in the north, so perhaps it was a transcription error. No other Susannah Warburtons or anyone with a similar name is listed in Altrincham in 1841 so the Susannah Warburton at the George and Dragon Inn is the correct person.¹⁶

1841 census showing Susannah as an inn-keeper, with her children Robert, Susannah and Alfred

Susannah became the innkeeper of the George & Dragon upon John's death. The 1851 census shows changes to the family structure. Robert, then aged 29 years, is the head of the premises in Stockport Road, Altrincham in the Parish of Bowdon. With him is his mother, Susannah, who is now recorded as a widow, and her son, Alfred. It is not known where her daughter, Susannah, is that night as she is not recorded as being with her mother and siblings. It is possible, that as she was aged 24, she was married. The premises had two guests with the Warburtons that day. Initially, it was assumed that the number in the far-left column of the 1851 was the house number. However, it is the census schedule number rather than the house number on Stockport Road. Looking back at previous census pages, the number does not start back at 1 for Stockport Road but rather continues on from the previous road. Unfortunately, Trafford Council does not have a map of the area from 1851 so it is not possible to identify the house.¹⁷

1851 census showing the Warburton household at Stockport Road Altrincham. The number 107 refers to the census schedule number, not the street number Trafford Council does not have a 1851 map of Altrincham with Stockport Road.

This 1876 map is the closest to that period.

Susannah may have just finished as an innkeeper in the 1851 census as no occupation is recorded against her name even though she has been recorded as being the innkeeper until 1852. For some unknown reason she is recorded as assigning all her personal estate and effects to an un-named trustee by indenture in May 1843. ¹⁸

¹⁸ An indenture is a legal contract that reflects or covers a debt or purchase obligation. It specifically refers to two types of practices: in historical usage, an indentured servant status, and in modern usage, it is an instrument used for commercial debt or real estate transaction.

The London Gazette, 30 May 1843, p. 1794, showing that Susannah has assigned all of her personal estate to an unnamed trustee

HEREAS Susannah Warburton, of Altrincham, in the county of Chester, Publican, hath by indenture of assignment, bearing date the 8th day of May 1843, assigned over all her personal estate and effects to a trustee therein named for the general benefit of such of her creditors as shall execute the same indenture, or duly assent thereto, on or before the 19th day of June next; notice is hereby given, that the said indenture now lies at the office of Mr. Edward Lees, Solicitor, No. 99, Fountain-street, Manzehester, for the inspection and execution of her creditors, and those who neglect to execute or assent to the same within the time limited will be excluded from all benefit arising therefrom.

Susannah died on 17 May 1858, aged 66. John Bourke, great-grandson of Michael and Emily, and his wife Sheila, found the grave of John and Susannah Warburton in 2014 with the help of Derrick Murdie, the 'keeper of the church records' at Bowdon Church but had no luck with locating the grave of John and Mary (nee Potts) Hulme, Emily's maternal grandparents. There is no record of them being buried at Bowdon so nearby Timperley was tried with no success. The names are very common in the area, with 23 John Warburtons buried at Bowdon at the time. There is a park at the intersection of Warburton Road and Hulme Drive.

Emily Jane and her siblings

MILY JANE HAD a short, albeit eventful, life. She was born on 8 February 1853 in Altrincham, the first of seven children, ¹⁹ arrived in Australia at the age of one, married at 18 and had her first of 14 children in the same year, made the major shift to Narioka in 1878 and died when she was just 36 years old in 1889. Unfortunately, no known photo of Emily is available, although there is one of her sister, Susannah, born some 20 months later. The only description we have of Emily Jane is at the time of her death, when she was described by

¹⁹ https://www.familysearch.org/tree/person/details/LZFT-LFW

Professor H.H. Allen, who performed the autopsy on her body that she was a "stout, flabby woman with a weak heart." Having fourteen babies and pregnant with her fifteenth child at the time of her death in the eighteen years of her marriage would surely have contributed to her body shape.

Susannah, Emily Jane's sister. The date of the photo is not known, although it was probably taken when she was in her 30s, at about the time of Emily Jane's death. Were Emily Jane and Susannah similar in facial appearance?²¹

Emily Jane's siblings were:

- Susannah was born on 17 October 1854. She married Leonard Shelford Bidwell on 30 November 1873, and they had eight children. Susannah died on 8 December 1898, aged 44 years;
- John Alfred died as a child, aged two. He was born in 1857, and died in 1859;
- John Archer also died young, aged six years. He was born in 1859, and died on 1 November 1865 while yabbying in a local creek;²²
- Eliza was born on 28 July 1860. She married Samuel Hunt in 1887, and died on 16 September 1924, aged 64 years. She had three children;
- George Alfred was born on 5 September 1864. He married Jane (nee Williams) in 1899, and died in 1944 at the age of 80 years of age. There were four children of this union;
- Lucy Maud was born on 26 May 1868 and died on 15 August 1954 at Kyabram at the good age of 86. It is not known when (or whether) she married.

What happened to the Warburtons?

KNOW LESS of Robert and Mary Warburton between the time of Michael and Emily's marriage and their deaths than I do of their ancestors, although I do know the Warburtons were a pioneering family in the Glenluce district in central Victoria, so more research is required into the Warburtons after their arrival in Australia. It appears Robert Warburton maintained his parents' occupation of innkeeper, as in 1862, he was the lessee of Waterloo Hotel at Bald Hill near Vaughan.²³ At the time of the death of his son John Archer, three years later in 1865, Robert stated in his coronial deposition that he was a miner, living at Green Gully, Glenlyon. At some stage he selected ground at Glenluce on the east side of Loddon River just before the approach to Mason's Crossing. A bridge erected by Mount Alexander Shire Council became known as Warburton's Bridge. At some unknown point of time, Robert purchased land and moved to Drummond North. His probate papers show he had five allotments totalling 55 acres.²⁴ They were fenced and contained a four-roomed weatherboard house.²⁵ Emily's parents both died in Malmsbury; Robert on 14 March 1897 and Mary, five months earlier on 15 October 1896. They are buried at the Castlemaine cemetery, located in nearby Campbell's Creek.^{26, 27}

Emily Jane's brother, George, remained at Glenluce on the family farm, marrying Jane Williams in 1899, who was a daughter of the neighbouring Williams family. Her sister Susannah lived in Malmsbury after marrying Leonard Bidwell; while her other two sisters, Eliza and Lucy, moved to Kyabram, where it appears they maintained a close relationship with Emily Jane and the children. In fact, Emily Jane's family appears to have played an important part in the naming of her children, with three – John, Lucy and Eliza – having the same names as Emily Jane's siblings.

Warburtons Bridge (above and right) is named after our Warburton family, who had an adjoining farm. It is located within a bend of the scenic Loddon River in Glenluce. The bridge is located within the Castlemaine Diggings National Heritage Park, which harbours protects culturally significant landscape and relics of the Victorian gold rush. The local council erected the bridge's name after a request from the author
